

Joe Biden Lies While at Baptist Church, Claims He Was a Civil Rights Activist and Attended a Black Church as a Teenager

Joe Biden on Sunday visited Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, Georgia to deliver remarks honoring Martin Luther King Jr.

Biden lied while he was at church.

Joe Biden claimed he attended a black church as a teenager.

Of course this never happened.

“I used to go to 7:30 mass every morning in high school and then in college, before I went to the Black church. Not a joke,” Biden said.

Biden made this false claim on the campaign trail during the 2020 election but church members cannot recall him attending.

Biden also once again falsely claimed he was a civil rights activist.

“When I started off as a 22-year-old kid on the east side in the civil rights movement,” Biden said.

This is one of Biden’s favorite lies.

Biden didn’t stop there. Biden also said he regularly attended a Black church, but apparently no one told the long-time congregants because they have zero memory of him.

If you're shocked by Biden making up such absurd stories, you haven't been paying attention. This is who Joe Biden is. He's a serial fabulist whose dishonesty goes back decades.

So, when will the corporate media start chasing Biden around to demand his resignation?

Biden lied while he was at church.

Joe Biden claimed he attended a black church as a teenager. He also falsely claimed he participated in the civil rights movement.

Then this happened...

Joe creeped on a girl sitting in the audience.

"What's your name honey? It's good to see you. Maybe I can have a picture with you before I leave, ok? Is that alright?" Biden said.

Yuck.
