

Charles,
 I wish to be the one who is the most of the R.B.A. Lampa
 I have certainly enjoyed getting to know you
 and especially
 all of our good times. I wish you the very best that God bless you May God

"I long to accomplish a great and noble task, but it is my chief duty to accomplish humble tasks as though they were great and noble. The world is moved along not only by the mighty shoves of its heroes, but also by the aggregate of the tiny pushes of each honest worker."

Helen Keller

With OTHERS as our motto and a pervading theme of LOVE, we the staff of Ridgecrest strive to perform to the best of our ability our assigned tasks. We are here because there are jobs to be done to meet the needs of those Baptists who come to RBA seeking training, as well as blessings. Many apply, but few are chosen to fulfill these needs.

Pritchell Hall introduces the guests to the staffers: the clerk at Reservations aids them by locating their lodgings; the girl behind the round information desk directs them by map to their cabin; the lobby boys escort them and help with their luggage.

As the guest finds his way around, he becomes familiar with the staffers who help him fill his leisure time purchasing refreshments, remembrances, and study materials. The Post Office helps to keep him in touch with family and friends; other staffers make him feel at home in the dining hall and his lodgings. He may relax in the afternoons by participating in crafts or recreational activities. Behind the scenes there are those staffers whose services are often taken for granted. These staffers help make the guests' stay more pleasant with flowers, clean floors, attractive curtains and fresh salads. These tasks are not merely jobs; they are trusts that are given us by Mom and Dad Weeks, and they are our way of serving our Lord through service to others for a summer.
