

Music

GAIL BRUECK
CHOIR DIRECTOR

Much knowledge of God is discerned through music, and under Gail's sensitive direction, some of that knowledge has been imparted to us by both the Staff and Select choirs. Gail is very particular and spends much time stressing the details such as articulation and dynamics, which result in expressive music. In every phase of music, from the choruses we sing at staff meetings to the moving presentations at special services, we have gained a deeper understanding of God's message in music.

Drama

JANET LEE
DRAMA DIRECTOR

Often we learn about both the humor and the seriousness of life when we see it portrayed on stage. Janet has led her drama class in making us "roll with laughter" at skits and become aware of the realities of life on stage. She has also directed the speech class in choral readings that have contributed to many of the programs. Her earnest guidance has given both those with whom she works and those who watch a more enlightened view of God's world.

Activities

JANE CHAMPION
SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

Jane is one of the busiest people at Ridgecrest, and in every phase of her work she exemplifies a Christian way of life. The planning of all banquets and special dinners is left to her, and whenever the staffers want a picnic, wiener roast, party, or hay ride, they turn to Jane. She also aids the guests in preparing activities such as watermelon-cutting parties. In dealing with many people, she readily gives special attention to all, no matter how busy she may be.

Recreation

JIM FOX
RECREATION DIRECTOR

Recreation is one of the most welcome and interesting parts of life at Ridgecrest. Members of the staff, as well as guests, may participate in such activities as volleyball, softball, basketball, football, tennis, swimming, canoeing, and hiking. Jim struggles each week to arrange a schedule of these activities for the guests that offers each of them opportunity to play. After his work is done, he may often be seen testing his own ability by playing in staff competition. As a result of Jim's careful planning, both the guests and staff learn much through the fun and fellowship of these activities.
